

FOUR G. O. P. LEADERS ASSURE LONDON OF SUCCESS IN THE EAST

Tell Governor His Candidacy
Is Meeting With Great Favor

WILL GET A BIG VOTE

Ballantine, Barbour, Martin and Clark Are All Sure of
G. O. P. Victory

TOPEKA, July 8.—Four prominent Republicans, it was announced today, have assured Governor Alf M. Landon that his candidacy is meeting with much favor in the Eastern section of the United States and that they predict that he will have a substantial majority of the votes in that section.

Those who conferred with Governor Landon were: J. Reuben Clark, Utah; former Under-Secretary of State and Ambassador to Mexico; Arthur Ballantine, of New York, former Under-Secretary of the Treasury; Senator W. Warren Barbour, of New Jersey, and Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, Eastern campaign manager for the Landon-Knox ticket.

Governor Landon had all four men and Senator Arthur Capper, Republican, of Kansas, for lunch, and conferred with them at various times during the day and evening about the campaign and also about various national problems.

Representative Martin said that Governor Landon would carry Massachusetts by 100,000 votes and that the situation throughout the East, including New York, looked excellent.

Senator Barbour said the Landon-Knox ticket would carry New Jersey by 250,000 votes. Mr. Clark said that President Roosevelt's strength in Utah was "superficial" and that the outlook there for Landon was "very good."

Mr. Ballantine, more interested in the Federal finances, eschewed election forecasts, but said he feared the present Administration could never balance the Federal budget because it has given "too many hostages to fortune."

"Having started expenditures which they said would be temporary, they have gradually been transferring them to the class of permanent expenditures," he said. "The Roosevelt Administration has lifted regular expenditures from about $3,400,000,000 in 1934 to an estimated $5,600,000,000 in 1937."

"The revenues are up. They are going to be higher next year than for any year in our history except 1920, before the war taxes were reduced. With revenues up, you would expect to see the budget balanced. But it looks as if there would be another large deficit."

Marriage of Langhorne Miss and Media Man Occurs

LANGHORNE, July 8.—The marriage of Miss Juliana Hofstetter, Langhorne, and James Hanna, Media, took place Friday evening, at the bride's home, 151 West Maple avenue, in the presence of immediate families and a few intimate friends.

The bride wore a sheer dress of white marquisette and lace with short veil, and carried a bouquet of small white orchids and lilies of the valley. She was unattended and was given in marriage by her sister, Mrs. Adolph Ziesenis, Avon, N. J. John King was best man for the groom.

The Rev. Waldo Parker, of St. James's Episcopal Church, performed the ceremony before the Colonial fireplace.

Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Albert Haimbach played two violin solos, accompanied at the piano by Miss Lillian Patterson. The solos were "Liebestraum" (Liszt) and "O Promise Me" (De Koven), followed by the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." A reception was held on the lawn.

Miss Hofstetter is a graduate of West Chester State Teachers College and has for a number of years been connected with Woods School. Mr. Hanna is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania where he was prominent in athletics and Mask and Wig activities. He has since graduation been on the copy staff of N. W. Ayer and son, Philadelphia. After a wedding trip to Peru, Mr. and Mrs. Hanna will live in Detroit, Mich.

HEAT DRIVES FARM LOSS HIGH IN MIDDLE WEST

Merciless Sun Shows Little
Inclination of Loosening
Its Grip

"MEASURE OF HOPE"

CHICAGO, July 8.—As its relentless heat drove farm losses toward the $300,000,000 mark, a merciless sun which showed little indication of loosening its grip, today had begun taking its toll of human life. Yesterday's unprecedented high temperature left an estimated toll of 40 dead of heat prostration, and drowning throughout the Middle West.

Only the Dakotas, where temperatures as high as 120 degrees were recorded yesterday, and Western Kansas and Nebraska and Northwest Minnesota, where nine deaths and scores of prostrations were reported, were accorded a measure of hope, "possibly scattered showers," today and tomorrow were forecast for those sections.

Only torrential downpours, however, can bring any relief to the plains of the Northwest, where in many sections farmers waded ankle deep in swirling dust.

With crops destroyed by the sun in the Dakotas, Eastern Montana and Nebraska, an estimated 200,000 families face suffering.

Liquor Board Agents Arrest Eddington Man

State Liquor Control Board agents yesterday afternoon arrested Peter Sterner, Eddington Gardens, Bensalem Township, and charged him with having moonshine whiskey in his possession.

The agents allege that they found a five-gallon can with the alleged whiskey in it, in the Sterner garage.

Sterner was brought to Bristol and given a hearing before Justice of Peace James Guy in the Municipal Building. He was held in $500 bail for court.

Legion Thanks Postmaster For Fine Service Given

Following is a copy of a letter mailed to Joseph P. Duffy, Bristol postmaster, by the members of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion:

Bristol, Pa., July 6, 1936.
Post Office Department,

EVERY BIRD KNOWS ITS OWN NEST

(New York American, June 30, 1936)

Father Coughlin says of his political movement:

"We are supposed to be the Leftist Party, but as a magnate attracts steel, so does the President attract Communists. Every bird knows its own nest."

Consider this perfectly accurate statement of Father Coughlin's in connection with the declaration of Earl Browder, Presidential candidate of the Communist Party.

Browder says frankly that the first duty of every Communist is to defeat Landon.

He says specifically that "the Landon-Knox ticket is the chief enemy."

In these two statements we get the complete Communist line of campaign.

The established and avowed purpose of the Communists is to overthrow American free institutions.

Mr. Roosevelt has been busily engaged in trying to do exactly the same thing ever since his election to the Presidency.

He has sought to override the Constitution, to arrogate to himself the powers of Congress, to substitute personal government for popular government, to limit the liberties and violate the rights of American citizens.

Naturally the Communists flock to him. "Every bird knows its own nest."

Mr. Landon, on the other hand, is pledged and consecrated to the preservation of American rights and liberties, to the defense of the Constitution, and to the perpetuation of the free institutions and the popular forms of government under which our country has grown to greatness.

It is natural, therefore, for Earl Browder, chief of the Communists, to say:

"The Landon-Knox ticket is the chief enemy."

It is natural for this spokesman of Moscow to declare:

"At all costs, Landon must be defeated."

It is logical for the Communist Party to say:

"We direct our main fire against Landon."

It is equally logical for all loyal Americans to determine at all costs to elect Landon, to support the patriotic American candidate, and so uphold American free institutions, and preserve in our republic the American right to individual freedom—the human right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

TRIO OF TALLIES IN 7TH WINS FOR JEFFERSON

Defeats Third Ward Nine By
Score of 6 to 5 in Twilight
Game

NIP-AND-TUCK AFFAIR

A trio of tallies in the seventh canto gave the Jefferson A. C. a close win over the Third Ward team last night on Leedom's field. Final tabulations were: Jefferson, 6; Third Ward, 5.

The tilt was nip and tuck throughout. The Warders took the lead in the first, lost it in the third and fourth and then regained it in the sixth only to lose out by the Mules' spurt in the seventh.

Hystie Grimes was charged with the defeat. Grimes gave the Mules six safe hits, one more than his opponent, Ralph Narcissi. A single by Frank Frankovic in the seventh with the sacks loaded scored the winning markers for the Tomlinsonmen. Grimes was wild in this canto and passed the first two batters to face him.

Hughes, third-sacker for the losing combination, gave the fans a thrill in the sixth by opening a Third Ward rally with a home run. Two more runs crossed the plate in this session before the third out was made. Johnny Dick had two doubles to lead the hitters for the night.

GAME LAW VIOLATOR GIVEN PAROLE BY COURT

Boy Who Robbed Bungalow Is Sentenced To The Reformatory

HEAR OTHER OFFENDERS

DOYLESTOWN, July 8.—Serving 135 days of a sentence of 304 days, Hastings C. Dize, former Tinicum township farm-hand, now of Schwenksville, who was committed to Bucks County Prison by Justice of the Peace W. Carlisle Hobensack, February 24, was granted a parole by Judge Calvin S. Boyer, Monday afternoon.

The defendant pleaded guilty to shooting deer out of season and in default of a payment of a fine of $300 and costs of $4 was committed to prison for 304 days.

"The Court suggests that you be very careful about game laws in the future. Laws are not to be fooled with and the Court had it on good authority that you paid no heed to the game laws at all," said Judge Boyer.

Dize assured the Court that he had learned his lesson and would not get into any more trouble.

Pleading guilty to felonious entry and larceny, which involved the theft of six chickens, six rabbits, a rabbit house and objects stolen from a house, including a rifle, Robert Beagell, 18, of Smithtown, was committed to Huntingdon Reformatory by Judge Calvin S. Boyer on Monday afternoon.

David H. L. Smith, a Philadelphia, who owns a Summer home on Dark Hollow and River Roads, testified that his house was entered on June 29 when objects valued at about $20 were stolen and a few days later the rabbits, chickens and rabbit house, valued at $25, were stolen.

"I know the defendant. He has a bad reputation, and I told him to stay away from my property," said Smith. Trooper Harry C. Christ, of the State Police barracks, this place, testified the youth admitted stealing a rifle and breaking into the Smith home. "He told me that Mr. Smith owed him money and that he did it to get even with him."

Before sentencing the youth, Judge Boyer said: "It was wrong to steal and break into his house even if you did think Mr. Smith owed you money. This would be a queer world if everybody who owes a debt could have their property stolen. Evidently you need better surroundings. You are too young to go wrong, and with the proper training may 'go straight' and make a man of yourself."

Reynolds Fortney, James Manor, who pleaded guilty to adultery, was sentenced by Judge Calvin S. Boyer to pay the costs of prosecution and serve not less than one month nor more than one year in the County Prison.

Fortney, the father of six children, is also charged with desertion and non-support by Mrs. Margaret Fortney, of Willow Grove.

"Your case is a puzzling one, not on your account, but because of your wife and six children. Two years ago the Court gave you a chance to mend your ways, make good and provide for your wife and children. Instead of that you have gone and made conditions worse. The Court will grant you a parole after a month if you and your wife can find some way to solve your difficulties," said Judge Boyer.

Fortney at a previous hearing before the Court blamed their marital difficulties on too much mother-in-law.

Joseph M. Kolb, of Applebachville, who will have served a minimum sentence of five months in the County Prison July 17, was refused a parole until he can assure the Court that he will be employed when he is released.

The defendant was convicted of keeping and maintaining a bawdy house and will be granted the parole as soon as his employer will communicate with President Judge Hiram H. Keller.

In the case of Russell Woodington, 34 Deary street, Trenton, N. J., in a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, President Judge Hiram H. Keller directed the defendant held under $1,000 bail and the prisoner remanded into the custody of the Sheriff.

Joseph Zello, of Morrisville, testified that Woodington and another man robbed him of $37 out of a Falls township farmhouse, May 29.

SCOUTS SPENDING TIME IMPROVING THEIR CAMP

Bristol Troop No. 2 and Scouts
From St. Francis School
Now in Camp

HAVING FINE TIME

Bristol Troop No. 2, Scoutmaster Robert B. Downing, has been giving some of its activity time to making the Buccoo camp site more attractive to the visitors. The local Scouts left for Buccoo last Sunday, and are spending a healthy educational experience at the Scout Reservation. They are making progress in the tournaments, and it looks as though the Lower Bucks Troop will be eating several of the championship watermelons. Assisting Mr. Downing is Lawrence McCoy, and the Scouts of the Troop are Thomas Collier, Paul Vandegrift, Norman Vandegrift, Ferdinando Monico, John Milledo, Leo Duffy and Jay Dougherty.

The Scouts under Mr. Downing are occupying the Palmer Point site. It is a romantic campaign atmosphere as they sleep under canvas, and all of their cooking is done over an outdoor fireplace. It is giving the Scouts a real experience of resourcefulness under difficulties, and will provide real character building values. The troop has erected two 12x14 tents, and a mess fly for eating meals. They are dry, and comfortable and having a great time.

The snappy alert troop from the St. Francis Industrial School, Eddington, is at Buccoo this week, and they are under the leadership of Scoutmaster Joseph Meehan. Mr. Meehan is located with his Scouts at the Scout Camp site. It is identical as to equipment as is the site where is located Bristol No. 2. Both troops are having an outing adventure. The Scout Camp site is located at the foot "of the hill," and includes two 16x16 sleeping tents, and a mess tent. The manly energetic appearance has been a splendid illustration of the marvelous work being done by Brother Edwin and his associated Brothers.

Rockefeller 97 Today

Lakewood, N. J., July 8.—Ninety-seven years old today, John D. Rockefeller, reputed to be the richest man in the world, quietly observed his birthday at his Summer estate near Lake-wood.

Rockefeller, it was said, is in good health, considering his age. He was expected to take it easy today, possibly foregoing his customary automobile ride within his estate, because of the hullabaloo occasioned in press circles by the arrival of another birthday.

Expect Relief Solution

Harrisburg, July 8.—Political maneuvering brought Pennsylvania's unemployment relief problem nearer solution.

With Governor Earle reported ready to compromise on a relief estimate of $49,000,000, a reduction of $6,000,000 from his earlier estimate, Republican leaders were understood to be ready to raise their $35,000,000 estimate to $45,000,000.

The legislature as a result, prepared to convene for today's session with a difference of only approximately $4,000,000 standing between political factions of the relief problem, but with state aid for 567,000 jobless at an absolute standstill.

Both Mayor S. Davis Wilson, of Philadelphia, who came here late yesterday to confer with the Governor and Senator Harry Shapiro, Republican, of Philadelphia, said the Governor was willing to reduce his relief estimate to $49,000,000.

HOLD GIORDANO UNDER $500 BAIL FOR COURT

State Alleges That Bristol Man
Appropriated Food Orders
To His Own Use

CASHED A RELIEF CHECK

Michael Giordano, Wood street, was held in $500 bail for court yesterday afternoon by Justice of the Peace James Guy. Giordano was charged with forgery by Mrs. Isabella Crownover, of Norristown, State Emergency Relief Board officers.

The formal hearing, which had been postponed twice previously, was held in the municipal building, here. J. N. Tolson, senior examiner, Special Investigating Department, SERB, was the only witness heard. In his testimony Mr. Tolson related the fact that on June 13, 1936, Giordano had given a signed statement to Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, in which he had admitted forging the names of Nicola Cordisco, Antonio Valentino, Vincenza Testa, and Louisa Mazzila, to certain food relief orders, and to one relief check, which he had appropriated to his own use.

The witness also told Justice Guy that last Friday Giordano had admitted to him personally, and to others who were present, that he had forged the names of certain recipients of relief orders, and appropriated the proceeds to his own use. Mr. Tolson said that in view of the fact that Giordano had signed these statements, in his opinion the state had a prima facie case, and he asked that Giordano be held for the next term of Bucks County Criminal Court.

Bail was fixed by Justice Guy in the sum of $500, and Giordano was released upon the signing of his bond by a friend.

It appears that the State will prosecute Giordano only in the cases in which it is alleged that Giordano forged the name of Nicola Cordisco to a relief check, a negotiable paper, in the sum of $7.25; and in the case of Antonio Valentino, and Vincenza Testa. It is alleged that Giordano procured food on relief orders made out in the names of the above on two different occasions for each, in the sum of $6 on each occasion.

Giordano was taken into custody here on June 13, by Detective Russo, after the Bucks county official had learned that Giordano had appropriated certain relief orders for his own use during the period dating from June, 1934, to some time in November of the same year. Giordano, for a considerable length of time, was employed in the Bristol Relief Office as a clerk. He served as a clerk to Mr. Russo, who had charge of administration of relief here. Russo resigned as relief administrator here, and gave up his duties May 30, 1934. Giordano was continued in office, and according to his confession it was after this that he used the orders to his own advantage.

BURLINGTON FOLKS VOTE TO DISPOSE OF PART OF ISLAND

To Facilitate Deepening of The Delaware Channel Along
The Water-Front

INCLUDES 4 6-10 ACRES

Improvement Will Cost Approximately $300,000;
To Employ 600 Men

BURLINGTON, N. J., July 8.—Residents of Burlington have voted in favor of selling a portion of Burlington Island in order to facilitate deepening of the Delaware River channel along the water-front here.

The vote in favor of the measure was 307 to 8. Work, it is expected, will commence immediately.

The voting period lasted but three hours in the city hall, the citizens being urged by Mayor Thomas J. Johnson, at an earlier date, to approve the sale.

NEW DEAL DECLARED

It is in a "do or die" spirit that the New Dealers enter the presidential campaign. They will stand or fall on the New Deal.

The effect draws a clear line between the political philosophies enunciated in the Republican platform at Cleveland and in the Democratic at Philadelphia. After proclaiming it based on "self evident truths" regarding the duty of government to the people (there attempting to purloin the language of 76), the patriots of '36 endorse the New Deal lock, stock and barrel.

The indorsement extends to Federalism vs. states' rights, to the Tennessee Valley "yardstick" of determining fair prices of electric power, to amending the Constitution if need be to enlarge Federal powers, to the costly policies identified with the secondary figures in the New Deal most under attack—Ickes, Hopkins, Wallace and Tugwell.

It is another short and vigorously worded platform, in tenor and text bearing witness to President Roosevelt's principal authorship. There are contradictions. Monopolies are to be extirpated in one paragraph under the anti-trust laws, while in a next they are to be thoroughly regulated by the Federal Government. There are generalities giving Mr. Roosevelt ample freedom of "interpretation," if amendments later suit his campaign interests.

And any Democratic pledges this year bring up their broken promises of 1932.

None the less, the convention produces a platform remarkably free of inconsistencies, and making a frank definition of a Democratic Party which, according to the letter of its former statements of political faith, cannot now recognize itself as the same institution.

The platforms ought to be the basis of presidential campaigns, their contrasts as marked as the contrasts between the men standing on them. That the platform contrast exists this year encourages a prospect that, too, besides the choice between Landon & Knox and Roosevelt & Garner, the result in November will turn materially on voters' thoughtful decisions upon what principles of government they wish applied from this day on.

No American worthy of that term doubts what the verdict will be.

LEADING STORES ADVERTISE

If you go into almost any community, you find this thing to be true: The leading stores are good advertisers. If you see a large store, it probably uses a lot of newspaper space. If you see a small store with few people in it, it is not properly advertised.

These two things go together so consistently that people can not expect to succeed in business unless they observe this means of reaching out to growth. If they want to go ahead and establish themselves as leaders in their home community and neighborhood, the way to do it is to tell the people what they are selling.

A campaign orator who says "I will let my record speak for itself," is good for another 45 minutes.

Big newspaper sensation of 1970: Draegermen digging through 40 layers of taxes to rescue posterity.

After all, having seen some of the Black Legion unveiled, it might be better if they donned the masks.

Even if she and her life could change so completely in a few hours, how could she be sure of her reaction to it until she had had time in which to gain the right perspective on it? She had to find that time, somehow. She hadn't wanted Dewey to stop his car before he arrived at the Merchen's, and yet she had known that he would. Intuition, and the sequence of the day's events, had told her that he would. Yet she had had so little experience of this kind. She wondered if this were an example of what was known as woman's intuition. But she had been powerless to prevent Dewey stopping the car, much as she wished he would not, and knew that he would. She objected, a trifle shakily, but lightly, "I must go straight home. Doti will be expecting me."

"Please say that you won't go away, and that you will stay here always—with me."

"Not for a long time. Jack won't let her think about you for awhile, little lady. But I've been thinking about you ever since I saw you this afternoon."

"That hasn't been so long, has it?" she reminded him, dreading a repetition of his earlier declarations.

"Time has nothing to do with it. When a man sees the girl he's been looking for all his life, it seems as if he has always known her. I've realized that all this evening."

"But you don't really know me," Lynn insisted, feeling more bewildered than ever. Here was a man whose attention most of the girls of the city had desired at some time, telling her that she was the one for whom he had passed them all by. It was incredible.

"Then, let's get acquainted," he suggested, drawing her closer with his arm.

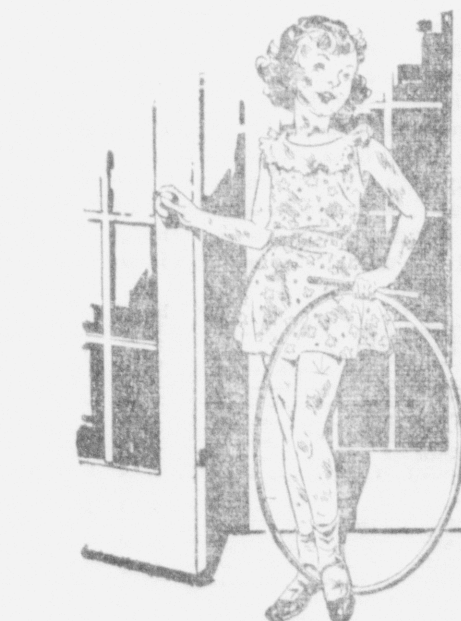

"Please," she entreated, pressing her hand against his shoulder to resist his embrace. "You will know me better after I've been here for a week."

"When you will be going away—yes. Please say that you won't go away, that you will stay here always—with me."

"I couldn't say that now—and be honest. You see—I don't know you, either."

"But you are wearing my pin," he reminded her, as he noticed the gleam of its emeralds in the light. Her hand reached up to it quickly, as if she had forgotten it. "I'm sorry—if you misunderstood my acceptance of it. I expected to return it after tonight."

"But I gave it to you to keep," Doti told me—what it means, to accept a krewie pin."

King Edward On Air Tour

London, July 8.—Making his fourth airplane flight since his ascension to the throne, King Edward VIII., accompanied by the Duke of York, today began a long aerial tour of the Royal Air Force stations.

The King's plane was piloted by Flight Lieutenant, Edward Fielden, regarded as one of the best pilots in Britain. He has acted as Edward's pilot since 1929.

Refuses To Release Parker

Trenton, N. J., July 8.—New York state's demand for extradition of Ellis H. Parker, Sr., chief of Burlington County detectives, and wanted in Brooklyn to face charges of kidnapping Paul H. Wendel, was confronted today with a flat refusal by Governor Hoffman.

Parker is under indictment for complicity in the alleged kidnapping of Wendel, who claimed he was tortured into a false confession that he kidnapped Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. In his refusal to grant the extradition, Governor Hoffman asserted affidavits on which New York authorities based their request were "manifestly false."

CLEAN REFRIGERATOR FREQUENTLY TO WARD OFF FOOD SPOILAGE

By RHANDENA A. ARMSTRONG
Home Economics Representative

To keep food unspoiled the homemaker must see that even her cold storage or refrigerator is kept clean. Even the smallest accumulation of refuse or dirt may breed bacteria. By careful management she will find cleanliness an easy task. No spoiled food should be left on the shelves, and anything spilled should be wiped up immediately.

It is not necessary to use hot water in the washing of the inside of the refrigerator for this greatly increases the temperature. Suds made of mild soap and lukewarm water, to which has been added a little baking soda, applied liberally once a week will be sufficient to insure sanitation under ordinary conditions.

A good time to wash the refrigerator is in the morning before the day's cooking and supplies have been put in, thus having less things to remove when washing the shelves. Refrigerators with drain pipes need special attention. Neglected drain pipes are a source of bacteria development. A long brush made especially for the purpose is essential for cleaning.

Clean containers for food placed in the refrigerator are also necessary. Most foods, too, are better protected if put into the refrigerator in covered dishes. This is especially important with milk.

The good homemaker, knowing the importance of cleanliness of food supply in safeguarding the health of her family, cleans her refrigerator regularly throughout the year.

FOUR MORE YEARS OF THIS?

NEW DEAL CONGRESSES HAVE APPROPRIATED $38,000,000,000 TO BE SQUANDERED.... STOP THEM!

WINNING THE BATTLE against the depression has been likened by New Deal orators as important as American victory in the World War. But the 38 billion dollars which has been appropriated by the New Deal Congresses exceeds the net World War cost to the United States. In 1930 the Treasury Department estimated this at 37 billion 874 million dollars.

This big difference also remains between the two spendings. We won the World War. The New Deal battle against the depression has been confused with boondoggling, crack-pot visions hatched by Professors, and unprecendented political patronage. So we still have 12 million unemployed, approximately the same number we had four years ago.

FASHION PARADE

By ORRY-KELLY
(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Furs for summer... seldom seen in the West, but prevalent throughout the North and East well into the hottest days... are becoming more and more a fashion item to be reckoned with for summer 1936.

Paris, already at work on its styles for fall, decrees that fur will be worn in new ways on coats and suits, which will start dribbling into the United States any minute now. On coats, collars and cuffs of fur will be rivalled by fur encrustations on front sleeves... fur coats will be drapery around the elbow and fitted at the waist... fabric coats may have silver foxes that form a collar or drop down around the hips at the wearer's will to make a peplum... and suits will have peplums either edged with or entirely of the fur.

In Hollywood, furs for summer wear are also on the upward curve, with Mary Pickford making an appearance on one of the warmest days wearing a brown suit and stone martens, which have not been much seen for the past two seasons.

Gloria Stuart, trying to get away also from the more familiar furs, is sponsoring cross fox, and has two new skins, beautifully marked, which she likes in particular with dark blue suits and small-patterned prints.

Kay Francis, playing in "Sweet

Aloes," currently, has two negligees, trimmed respectively with blue fox and beige fox, and a summer evening wrap lined entirely in white ermine. Freida Inescourt, in the same picture, will wear a hostess gown with a hip-length tunic and full medieval sleeves banded in sable—this outfit, although in a metallic weave, being sheer, low-necked, with sleeves short on top, and definitely designed for summer.

Summery, also, is the cocktail dress that is the envy of friends of Simone Simon. Of thin white suede, buttoned straight down the front with jade buttons, it is trimmed with bands of white galyak, and is worn with a slim frock of black marocain and a white suede hat trimmed with a wisp of green veiling.

Furs, evidently, are something to be considered seriously for this summer.

CROYDON

Mr. and Mrs. Ralston Hedrick motored to Washington, D. C., where they are staying with friends.

"IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE" SINCLAIR LEWIS GREATEST NOVEL

The thudding heels of marching men... Fascist troops on the move! Gunfire snuffing out American lives! Homes torn apart! Bloodshed, screams and sobs mingled with the ruthless commands of drumhead court-martials! The United States controlled by force! Democracy mangled... discarded!

That's the dire picture Sinclair Lewis paints in the greatest novel of the times! Every American should read this book. Its gripping action starts with the 1936 Presidential campaign.

Read it... enjoy it... thrill to it... think about it! But don't miss "It Can't Happen Here," by Sinclair Lewis... the mightiest novel of our day!

SPORTS WRITER PICKS CUBS TO WIN N. L. FLAG

(By Louis Tomlinson)

A bit timid and shy, this amateur sports scribe toddled down to the Phils' bench during batting practice at the Philadelphia exhibition game at Landreth's Park, Monday night, and secured the following dope on this and that concerning the Phils, National League, Dream Game and a bit of general knowledge.

This scribe entered the park shortly after the Phils arrived, and after they had taken their pre-game cuts at the ball, he spotted Dick Spaulding ambling toward the bench after tossing them up for the Phils' batters. Your reporter, after gathering together enough courage, modestly asked the Phils' coach for an interview, to which he very generously and kindly replied, "Yes." We expected to see Jimmy Wilson, manager of the Phillies, but since he was absent the being in Boston as N. L. coach for Dream Game today, we turned to Dick for our interview. This being the scribe's first interview with a "big-time" player, and being unprepared, he was somewhat nervous. However, after an introduction, a hand shake, and a little gossip, we overcame this and modestly began the interview from scratch.

The net result from Dick wasn't as productive as was the questioning of Stan Baumgartner, Philadelphia Inquirer sports writer. However, we give you what we have.

Since we were interviewing a Phils' coach, our attention, naturally enough, turned to the Phils and the National League. Therefore, we first asked where he thought the Phils would finish this year, to which he immediately replied that it was hard to say right now where they would finish with over half of the season's games to be played yet. In answer to the same question somewhat later, Stan Baumgartner said he thought the Phils would end the season where they are now.

Being interested to know the reason for the Phils' poor showing this season, we asked Dick and Stan individually what they attributed the cause to. Dick blamed this on the weak defense of the Phils, especially the inner cordon, stating that the batting and pitching both were good. He also said that the absence of Johnny Moore for so long a time, due to a pulled muscle, had not a little to do with it. Incidentally, Johnny says he's in great shape now and feeling fine. On the other hand, Stanley seemed to think the cause lies in the spotty pitching, poor defense, and weakness at second base and on double plays.

In looking over the Phils' roster this year, you note several new faces in the line-up, and they're all making good. I refer to Earl Grace, Bill Atwood, catcher; Leo Norris, shortstop; and Erny Sulik, an outfielder, all developed by Jimmy Wilson, whom Spaulding rates as one of the best and smartest managers in the game today, especially in the development of battery men. The most noted of these is the turning of Bucky Walters from an infielder to a top-notch pitcher. For this reason the poor showing of the Phils can in no way be blamed on Jimmy. Upon this Stan also agrees.

Dick thinks the Phils picked up some fine players this year in Norris, Atwood and Sulik, all of whom are hitting above .300 this far and all are good fielders. However, the "joke" rookies of the year are Joe Di Maggio sensational outfielder of the New York Yankees, and "Stu" Martin, sparkling second baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals in their respective leagues in opinion of the famous sports writer of the Inquirer. Both of these rookies, who are making good in a big way, were selected for the All-Star Game in Boston and deservedly so.

Speaking of the Dream Game let us take a look at the expectations of the Phils' coach and Inquirer's sports writer. In Dick's mind he believed the National League stars would win if they worked the right pitchers, while Stan picked the American Leaguers to win for the fourth consecutive time due to their superb batting power.

The selection of the players for the All-Star clash were picked mostly by the fans this year and accounts for some of the various favorites being omitted from this game, the most noted of which are Pepper Martin, Wally Moses and Dolph Camilli. The latter two can be explained by the fact that Philadelphia papers carried no polling because they felt the interest lacked due to the game not being played in Philadelphia and the expense attached to it. But Martin's case is puzzling to all sports writers and neither Dick nor Stan could answer it. In Jimmy Wilson's opinion, Martin is the best player in the National League. Stan claims that Camilli is the best first baseman in the N. L. Asked why he felt he wasn't selected, Camilli said the fans did not vote for him especially in view of the Phils' low position.

Getting back to the Phillies again, the boys, who were having a "swell" time Monday night, got along "swell" together and feel confident of rising higher in the league than they stand at present. They feel sure that they will get into sixth or fifth, and maybe even fourth place.

Concerning the rest of the league, the popular sports writer seems to think the Cubs will win the torrid National League pennant scramble in recognition of their well-balanced ball club. "They don't have as much power but they have better pitching than the Cardinals," quoted Stanley. However, he expects the Cards to be in the thick of the fight all the way.

In regards to the fast-coming and surprising Cincinnati Reds, Stan says they are the biggest surprise of the league and are good because they are hustling and for that reason you can't help but like them. He says they are youngsters of a hall club not as good as the Phils. They are up in the league because of their hustling and are going to be tough for the other teams as they have recently showed. At the same time Spaulding says the Cubs and Reds are the two best teams in the National League at present but declined to say who he thought would win the pennant as yet.

Dick Spaulding claims that Jimmy Wilson was misquoted by some sports writers on recent Frisch-Wilson feud started rumors. Baumgartner, on the other hand, says that Wilson must have said something to that effect that it just didn't break out. He states, however, that what Jimmy meant was that by pitching Dizzy in relief too often would result in the other Cardinals pitchers losing confidence, an essential thing for a pitcher and ball club to have.

Chuck Klein, Phils' fence-buster, is glad to get back to Philadelphia but that it doesn't matter as they're all the same. Incidentally since rejoining the Phils, Chuck has raised his average above .300 again. He was traded

ODD FELLOWS TASTE 1ST DEFEAT OF 2ND HALF

The Odd Fellows tasted their first defeat of the second half race of the Bristol Twilight League last night on Landreth's field, being downed by the White Elephants, 5-1, in an upset.

It was principally the arm of Bill Hart that subdued the Oddies. Hart set down the Radcliffe street clan with four hits. The only run off his delivery came as the result of an error by Tryon. For the first four frames, the Odd Fellows failed to make a "hinge" off the slim twirler. Willie Ritter made two of the Oddies' four safe blows.

"Milt" Jones allowed the winners seven hits. But two of these were bunched in the second for a marker while the other five came in the fifth when the Elephants put the game on ice by counting a quartet of markers. Hamm and Ihrig were the only Elephants not to hit safely.

by the Cubs with Kowalik for Davis and Allen. When asked whether he thought the ball was any livelier this year he said he didn't, merely that the sluggers had returned to form and are hitting again. Baumgartner, however, disagreed with Chuck for he seemed to think that the rapid ball had returned and is much faster this year.

Dick Spaulding thinks Bucky Walters is the "ace" of the Phils mound corps this year—an attribute to Jimmy Wilson.

Many of the Phils players were swamped by autograph seekers, many of whom secured all of the Phils players who were here that night. Among these were Dave Landreth himself, several of the players of Landreth's and your scribe.

The Phils put on a comedy toward the end of the game.

The fans got a big kick out of seeing Dolph Camilli, Chuck Klein, Johnny Moore, Bill Atwood, Jose Gomez and some of the other Phils players fan.

Leo Hibbs' three-base hit with the bases loaded was the high-light of the game for Landreth's.

The Phils put on an exhibition of long distance clotting during the game and many balls went out for extra base hits.

The appearance of Dave Landreth in the line-up also gave the fans a treat. Dave played the last inning and had a put out but disappointed the fans by "kaying" in his only trip to the plate.

Stan Baumgartner covered the game for the Associated Press and Philadelphia papers.

He at one time pitched for both the Phils and A's. He pitched for the Phils during their pennant year of 1916, and after quitting for 6 years returned and pitched for the A's during 1924-'25-'26. He was the third leading pitcher in the American League one year. Only Pennock and Johnson were better. He has been in big league baseball for seven years and is now President of the Associated Press staff of baseball writers.

Stan now writes daily for the Philadelphia Inquirer and is a popular and well known writer today. And he doesn't mind keeping "headache" scores when one team bats around several times per inning because he likes to keep score—the reason for success in any business.

Sirott Wins Over Fegley; To Replay Fry-Dries Match

In the quarter finals of the Bristol municipal tennis tournament, played last evening, Samuel Sirott won over Dayton Fegley, 6-3, 6-1.

In the matches of Wayne Fry and Harry Dries the players were forced to halt at five games each in the third set, due to darkness. The two will replay the third set tonight.

The semi-finals will take place tomorrow evening.

Four G. O. P. Leaders Assure Landon of Success in East

"I feel confident that the difference between income and outgo can be bridged, but it is going to require resolution and intelligence in effecting economies. I am confident that the budget can be cut heavily without the sacrifice of any human values by seeing that both the Government and the unemployed get full measure for every dollar that is spent.

"I regard what Comptroller McCarl said in retiring as extremely significant. He said there must be an overhauling of agencies and their methods. As he saw so clearly, many of them are now being administered with very great waste.

"We've got to have a new purpose. We are way past the time when we can talk about spending as an emergency policy. There is nothing in the Administration's attitude or program to indicate recognition of the inevitable penalties of failing to get the budget into balance."

Senator Barbour, who met Governor Landon for the first time today, said: "Like everybody else, I was greatly impressed by his personality. His popularity in the East is increasing actually by leaps and bounds. I feel he can carry New Jersey by a quarter of a million votes. People have the growing feeling of reliance on his soundness of judgment and humanitarian realization of the needs of the day."

Barbour said he hoped Governor Landon would be able to speak in New Jersey during the campaign.

Representative Martin said he told the Governor that his campaign in the East is getting off to a fine start. "He will carry Massachusetts by 100,000," Martin added. "He will carry the rest of the East, I think."

Martin said he did not mean that the Republicans would not have to make an aggressive campaign in most States, including Pennsylvania.

"We are going to make a fight in every State in which we campaign," he added. "We are going to make a fight in Virginia, North Carolina and Florida, all of which we may have a chance of carrying. We are going to make a lively campaign in the States we feel sure of."

Mr. Martin said it had been many years since he had seen a candidate to whom his own New England responded so promptly and favorably. He asserted that "figuring very conservatively," the Republicans would have at least 225 out of 435 seats in the next house, as against their present 103. "If Governor Landon goes over by substantial pluralities in many States, the number of Republican seats will go higher," he added.

Martin said that before the end of the campaign the Democrats would be "so nervous" that they would be changing their campaign plans every day or two.
